Brompton Experiences: Tour Itinerary

Total: 170km (Route Extensions Available For Stronger Brompton Cyclists)

Welcome to the beautiful island of Taiwan ! Known for its delicious food, friendly people, and stunning natural landscapes, Taiwan is a perfect destination for adventure enthusiasts. If you love cycling, you'll be in for a treat as we take you on a journey through three of Taiwan's most scenic cities: Taoyuan, Hsinchu.

Taoyuan:

Taoyuan, the gateway to northern Taiwan, is more than just an airport city. It's a hidden haven for cyclists seeking a peaceful countryside ride. Leave the city behind and glide into Taoyuan's scenic backroads, where rice paddies sway in the breeze and the pace of life slows down.

One of the ride's highlights is the BaiChienChen Green Tunnel, a serene, tree-lined pathway that feels like cycling through a natural cathedral. Further along the route, you'll reach the Yong'an Fishing Harbor, where the scent of the sea and the sight of colorful boats greet you at the coast. Whether you're chasing ocean views or rural charm, Taoyuan offers a refreshing escape just an hour from Taipei but with a soul of its own.

Hsinchu:

Hsinchu — where tradition meets technology, and every ride connects the past with the future.

This cycling route takes you through the diverse landscapes of Hsinchu, starting with a peaceful ride along County Road 22, winding through lush hills toward the scenic Eemei Lake, where the still waters mirror the sky and calm the soul.

From there, we head to the coast for a breezy journey along the 17km Coastal Bike Path in Nanliao. With waves crashing on one side and fishing boats bobbing in the harbor, it's the perfect stretch to let your thoughts drift with the sea breeze.

Hsinchu is more than a hub of semiconductors and high-tech innovation, it's also rich in Hakka heritage, traditional tea culture, and vibrant city life. Here, historic villages and ancestral homes sit beside trendy cafés and start-up spaces.

Cycling through Hsinchu is a ride through time from old-world charm to the frontiers of modern innovation.
