

BROMPTON EXPIRIENCES

South Korea - BUSAN

Cycling a Brompton through Busan is an exercise in mindful travel. Its compact fold makes it effortless to navigate trains, riverside paths, and ancient temple grounds, unfolding seamlessly into rides through Eulsukdo Eco Park and along the final stretch of the Nakdong River.

Further inland, quiet roads lead to Gyeongju, where royal tombs, temple ruins and the courtyards of Bulguksa sit close beside the path. Riverside trails and cliffside boardwalks invite unhurried pedalling, where each turn reveals hidden details of Busan's landscape and Silla-era history. With cyclist-friendly paths and a calm, unhurried pace, the Brompton turns everyday transitions into part of the journey. Here, cycling is less about speed and more about rhythm, presence, and discovery.
